

East Church roof works

16 June 2009

A hot day on the roof

All the slates are now removed from the roof, and roofing membrane replaced with a breathable one.

Slates are collected and sorted

Some of the sarking boards were just too rotten to re-use

Slates in reasonable condition are stacked ready for putting back on the roof

Sadly many of the slates are too decayed to go back on the roof. But they'll be used for pinnings between stonework in other building projects
